East Side

By P. D.

To many that which follows is likely to be highly sacreligious, but such is not my point; rather, in my opinion, it's just a legitimate gripe.

It is written in the scriptures that in six days God created the heavens and the earth and all there is in them. (This, of course, was before the time of John L. Lewis, else God would probably have worked only four and one-half days.) On the seventh day, says the scriptures He rested. And that in my opinion, was a sad mistake.

With a limited number of exceptions, God did an excellent job. But I do wish He'd seen fit to put in a day's overtime on the Mind of Man. Books have been written on the inconguities of the mind of the human being . . . and there's room left for more efforts in that direction, too.

My observation with reference to the human mind, and the incongurity thereof, has to do with some of the self-centered, egotistical, so-called Christians in these parts. They give me a pain. Just how the hell they can go to church on Sunday, with the regularity of going to the bathroom during the week, fall upon their knees, bow their heads, and commence a monologue over their private pipeline to Heaven, and in the meantime refuse absolutely to pay a single bill they owe their fellowman. Maybe they can justify it . . . but damned if I can, in view of the fact that a few such critters owe me money and won't pay it! In short, how can they justify the Christian principle of "doing unto others" when they haven't even the decency to disscus their obligations to others? Personally, I think they are nothing short of a bunch of damned hyprocrits.

Like I said, I do wish God had seen fit to have worked on that seventh day, especially on the mind of man. Either that, or I wish some of the idiots would pay me what they owe.

The foregoing mention of money brings to mind an incident that came to my attention last week in Pascagoula. A certain big operator in Biloxi was having several thousand circulars printed, and he called over to the shop to instruct them to add all the towns in which he had stores. "Now, let's see," he started, "we've got a store in Biloxi, Gulfport, Ocean Springs, Bay St. Louis, Pascagoula, Lucedale, and . . . and . . . well, I know we've got two more stores, but damned if I know where they are." With that he asked someone in his office, "Where the hell did

Farmers Told Of Work Law For Children

U. S. Official Warns Employees To Avoid Violating Code

Mississippi farmers and growers were warned Monday to acquaint themselves with provisions of the child labor laws before hiring workers during the school term which opens in many communities this week.

Louis F. Provine, supervisor of the wage and hour division of the U.S. Department of Labor, gave this advice to those who would avoid unintentional violations:

1. Learn the requirements of both state and federal child labor laws.
2. Not to employ or permit children under 16 to work in or about the farm during hours school is in session.
3. Make sure the youth is of employable age and keep the required records for at least three years.

Provine said:

"The law exempts growers of agricultural and horticultural products from its $1 minimum wage and overtime provisions, but it specifically prohibits employment of children under 16 years of age in agricultural occupations during hours school is in session.

"Children of any age may be employed on the farm during vacation periods, on weekends and before and after schools and the grower may use his own children in agricultural work at any time on his own farm.

"Federal regulations require that each grower have on file for each employe under 18 a record showing the full name, date of birth, home address and the local address if the minors are employed on days when school is in session."

Lip Service Liberals

Prostitution, unfortunately, like other commerce, is not limited to such famed streets as New Orleans' Bourbon and Rampart.

We admit our ignorance to the classification of prostitutes. We presume they are of various calibre.

However, an honest-to-goodness, down-to-earth whore is preferable to us than the lowest of all prostitutes, The Lip Service Liberal.

Yes, we have several such persons in mind.

Or Would You Prefer Tutti-Fruitti?

It is with some degree of relunctance that we embark on this discussion of selling and buying in the name of Democracy. The reason for that relunctance is due to our having observed that persons affiliated with any party whatsoever usually are able to see only their party's views on any given subject. Thus, we fear being misunderstood.

But, then, what if we are?

However, just for the record we'd like to say in all honesty that we have no ties with nor undue sympathy for the Communist Party, Socialist Party, Republican Party, Democratic Party, or even the Doodlebug Party.

But, damnit, we do have ties with and sympathy for this nation.

From what we've read in numerous publications concerning Communist Russia, we have about decided it is becoming more like this nation every year; and, by the same observations, it appears that this nation is getting more like Communist Russia every session of the Congress.

How the Russians go is of no great concern to us. But how we go is of the greatest concern.

The founding fathers of this nation aimed at founding a nation "of the people, by bout $50 billion.

The Federal Government own sufficient power producing facilities to furnish one-fourth of the needed power for the nation.

The Federal Government, with the Social Security Administration, is in the insurance business.

The Federal Government has the power to tell an employer the minimum he can pay an employee.

The Federal Government has the power to tell a farmer what he can and cannot plant, and in what amounts.

The Federal Government has hocked every single person in the nation to the tune of $1700 each.

The Federal Government is practicing Communism in so owning and operating such projects as mentioned above.

The Federal Government is practicing Socialism in that it controls practically everything which it doesn't own.

As recently as 20 years ago 75% of all taxes went to individual towns, cities, and states. Today 75% of all taxes go to the Federal Government.

The Federal Government, through its controlling powers, has transferred to itself at least one half of the value of all private

Optimist Notes —

Business Meeting Held Last Week; Club Voted 'Thanks' To Opti-Mrs.

The regular weekly meeting of the Petal Optimist Club was held last Thursday night at 7:30 in the Community Center. Dr. O. N. Ashcraft, club president, presided over the business discussion which was held by members of the club.

Members discussed the work accomplished to date by the club, and responsibility of various committees was pointed out in the talk.

The club voted to open a headquarters office in the Mathis Building, next to the Jewelry Shop, in order to expidite the raising of money for the Petal Optimist Park Project. The office was opened the first of this week.

Opti-Mrs. were given a vote of thanks for the work they had done in operating the Rummage Sale, which has been underway for the past three weeks. Plans at the meeting last week were indefinite as to the future of the Rummage Sale.

Ayrshires Club Sale Is Set For September 24th

The Mississippi Ayrshire Club's Sale will be held in the Animal Husbandry Building at Mississippi State College at 1 p.m. Sept. 24. Approximately 40 head of heavy springers, cows and heifers just right for fall milk production, as well as a few good bulls and heifer calves, will be offered for sale. The buyers of Ayrshires in previous sales have been well pleased with the cattle purchased. There are now Ayrshires in 32 of the counties of Mississippi, and twelve new Ayrshire breeders have been welcomed into the club in the past year.

State Medical Meeting Set In Jackson For September 19-20

More than 300 physicians from throughout Mississippi will meet in Jackson Sept. 19-20 for the eighth annual academy of general practice, according to Dr. W. E. Lotterhos, Jackson, president of the Academy.

To be held at the Heidelberg Hotel, the Academy is a post graduate training course for all general practioners in the state. Hours of formal credit will be given to each doctor attending the two-day meeting.

Dr. H. C. Hicks, Sr., president, Mississippi Medical Association, will give the welcome address on Wednesday morning.

president of the American Academy of General Practice Wednesday evening at a banquet. Music will be furnished by a local orchestra.

Dr. Louis Hittlemyer, director of the department of general practice, University of Mississippi, will speak at the Thursday luncheon.

Thirty-six exhibitors will present to Mississippi doctors the latest drug and surgical supplies, books and medical instruments. Six educational exhibits will be included in the display.

Officers for the coming year will be elected during the business session Wednesday. At the close of the general assemblies, Like I said, I do wish God had seen fit to have worked on that seventh day, especially on the mind of man. Either that, or I wish some of the idiots would pay me what they owe.

The foregoing mention of money brings to mind an incident that came to my attention last week in Pascagoula. "Now, let's see," he started, "we've got a store in Biloxi, Gulfport, Ocean Springs, Bay St. Louis, Pascagoula, Lucedale, and . . . and . . . well, I know we've got two more stores, but damned if I know where they are." With that he asked someone in his office, "Where the hell did we put those other two stores?" It must be nice to be rich.

That incident brings to mind a talk I had with a certain fellow earlier this year. Jokingly, I said to him: "You know your trouble, don't you? Everyone knows that you own fifty-percent of this town."

He slammed his fist on his desk and exclaimed, "P. D., that's just a damned lie and you know it. I don't own but ten percent of this town!"

Like I say, it must be nice to be rich.

Certainly seems to me that Dillard McMullan and C I T ought to appreciate me. Last week, while on a trip in their Chrysler, I tried dumping the fire from my pipe out the window. I failed, and the whole business blew back into the car and fell on the small strip of rug between the side of the seat and the door. Frankly, I couldn't stop too quick because of the heavy traffic. Finally, about five hundred yards from the mishap, I pulled into a roadside park to check the situation. The rug was smelling, but good, by then. There was no water around; but in order to save damage to Dillard and C I T, I sprayed the smouldering fire with my nose drops which were in an atomizer and which cost a buck and a quarter an ounce.

I report this instance for one purpose: I would like to remind the owners of the Chrysler that next time I may not have any nose drops with me. Naturally, if they'd like to replace the ones sprayed, well . . . .

I thought the Democrats and Republicians offered little choice to the average voter, but just take time to look over the States Righters Ticket. It is my honest opinion that anyone holding Confederate money can forget its possible future use . . . the South ain't gonna rise again, not in that direction. And if some of us don't begin to act like adult persons, there isn't too much chance that the South will rise in any direction. There is, of course, one consolation, negative though it is, we sure as hell can't get any further down on the ladder . . . thanks to such folks as the States Righters.

Congratulations to Bill Colmer and Tom Ott on their having been elected as Congressman and Chancery Judge last week. I know both men fairly well, and am of the opinion that no one could better fill the two offices than Bill and Tom.

A note on television. A couple of weeks ago I read a column by Mr. Pegler in which he discussed television and newspapers. He pointed out that FDR was responible for the fact that TV was scooping newspapers at such affairs as national conventions, etc. Well, everyone to his own belief, but I'll never understand how FDR could be responsible for something that was inevitable . . . and surely commercial television was a foregone matter since around 1920 or 21 when the first picture was sent in such a manner. Yes, it upsets me to have to have to work, too.

but it specifically prohibits employment of children under 16 years of age in agricultural occupations during hours school is in session.

Stennis Calls Attention To Farm Loans

United States Senator John Stennis said that the Department of Agriculture is making available $50 million immediately to implement legislation passed this year providing for building and remodeling farm homes and other farm buildings.

To be eligible, an applicant must live on the farm and receive a substantial part of his income from farming. The Mississippi Senator pointed out that these loans will not conflict with loans made by banks and other lending agencies as they are long-term loans extending the schedule of payments beyond those ordinarily covered by regular lending egencies.

Senator Stennis urged farmers interested in obtaining a long-term loan under this program to make application with their County Committee of the Farmers Home Administration at the earliest date. He said, "I believe that these loans will provide a sound approach to the credit needs of farmers for building new homes or making needed repairs on existing homes."

"Our farm home loan program has been badly neglected, and I am hopeful that this program will serve as the first step over the years in dotting our rural communities in Mississippi with new and improved homes."

Parents, Teachers Urged To Watch For Problems

Parents and teachers were urged by the Mississippi Optometric Association today to watch for symptoms of vision problems among children returning to school in September.

"Inadequate vision is a far more common cause of school failure and emotional disturbance than is generally recognized," said Dr. May, president.

Among symptoms of vision problems to look for, according to Dr. May, are:

Avoiding work requiring good vision at the reading distance.

Losing place while reading.

Holding work closer than normal.

Excessive head movements

But, damnit, we do have ties with and sympathy for this nation.

From what we've read in numerous publications concerning Communist Russia, we have about decided it is becoming more like this nation every year; and, by the same observations, it appears that this nation is getting more like Communist Russia every session of the Congress.

How the Russians go is of no great concern to us. But how we go is of the greatest concern.

The founding fathers of this nation aimed at founding a nation "of the people, by the people, for the people." The Constitution is so written. Three distinct branches were set up, each to act as a counter-balance against the others, should the need arise.

However, as we all know, whether we are willing to admit it or not, the last half-century has seen a constant shift of power from the people to the Federal Government. (Please, this piece is not in behalf of States Righters. We don't care for them at all.) Social legislation has been such that we are, at this very moment, just a step short of being a paternalistic welfare state.

In connection with the trend of which we speak, let us point out some figures with which you may not be familiar.

The Federal Government owns approximately 25% of the land in the United States.

The Federal Government owns housing projects and business properties worth a-

The Federal Government is practicing Communism in so owning and operating such projects as mentioned above.

The Federal Government is practicing Socialism in that it controls practically everything which it doesn't own.

As recently as 20 years ago 75% of all taxes went to individual towns, cities, and states. Today 75% of all taxes go to the Federal Government.

The Federal Government, through its controlling powers, has transferred to itself at least one half of the value of all private property in the United States today.

And we noted with dread the fact that, upon close analysis, the platform of both the Democratic and Republican Parties written recently are nothing more or less than pure Socialism. Read them for yourself very carefully.

Thus, it seems no end of idiocy is in sight. So, what is there to do? You answer it, please, we can't.

At any rate, from the appearance of the situation today, we are presently of the opinion that with the trend as it is the people of this nation would buy Socialism, Communist, Dog Patchism, or Tutti Frutti all under the name of Democracy.

Perhaps we'd do well to take a close look at the merchandise before we spend our great grand children's future.

Not That The Choice Is So Good—

But The Right To Vote Is Another Story!

The people of Mississippi will soon vote in a primary election. This election, every election, is important in these critical times, an American election is an international event. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Supreme Commander of NATO deftly commented on this fact thus:

"At no other time in the history of our nation has it been more imperative that Americans understand the vital problems that are being faced by their Government and the great need for every American to participate in their solution."

"Although I never cease to be proud of being an American, I have been impressed during my five years in Europe by the high percentage of Europeans who go to the polls to vote. Their record is better than ours in this all-important matter of individual participation in government.".

"I am sure that the American people, in their new and vitally important role, will rise to the challenge."

These are fine words — we should take them to heart.

Unfortunately, too many people still think their vote doesn't count. How often have you heard someone say "My one vote doesn't matter much." These are the same people who "are busy" on election day.

Your vote does count! Remember, though the votes number in the thousands, they are counted one by one.

Your vote selects — your vote elects candidates to public office. If you vote intelligently, regularly, chances are that you'll elect good government. If you ignore the ballot, odds are even better that you'll have corrupt government. Government is as good as the man or woman behind the ballot — no better, no worse.

Primary election day is your day, Mr. and Mrs. Voter. This is your day to have a say in the way your party is run — your day to pick the candidates you want to see ru;n for office.

You do more, however, than choose your party's candidate for public office on primary day. By voting intelligently in any election, you help to preserve the freedom which is our American heritage. And your vote, with that of your neighbors, tells the world that America is a united country, that we practice what we preach, that democracy works!

If you don't like what "those politicians" are doing to your government — if you want things changed — if you want things to remain just as they are — you can most effectively make your vote felt at the polls! Griping doesn't elect good men to public office. Voting does.

If you think that voting is a small duty, that is all the more reason why you should gladly do what is easy for you to do.

The right to vote is a great right. It's greatness can only be diminished if we neglect it.

More than 300 physicians from throughout Mississippi will meet in Jackson Sept. 19-20 for the eighth annual academy of general practice, according to Dr. W. E. Lotterhos, Jackson, president of the Academy.

To be held at the Heidelberg Hotel, the Academy is a post graduate training course for all general practioners in the state. Hours of formal credit will be given to each doctor attending the two-day meeting.

Dr. H. C. Hicks, Sr., president, Mississippi Medical Association. will give the welcome address on Wednesday morning.

Speakers for the two-day session will include: Doctors P. J. Sparer, Memphis; J. G. Hughes, Memphis, Max Sadove and M. J. Schriffrin, Chicago; Woodrow Beacham, New Orleans, and William J. Atkinson, Jr., Mobile.

Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin will be featured speaker at a luncheon Wednesday.

The general practitioners and their wives will hear Dr. William Sproul, Des Moines, Iowa, vice president of the American Academy of General Practice Wednesday evening at a banquet. Music will be furnished by a local orchestra.

Dr. Louis Hittlemyer, director of the department of general practice, University of Mississippi, will speak at the Thursday luncheon.

Thirty-six exhibitors will present to Mississippi doctors the latest drug and surgical supplies, books and medical instruments. Six educational exhibits will be included in the display.

Officers for the coming year will be elected during the business session Wednesday. At the close of the general assemblies, door prizes will be awarded.

The Academy of General Practice was founded to promote and maintain high standards in the general practice of medicine and surgery and to encourage and assist young men and women in preparing themselves for general practice.

The academy also provides post graduate study courses for general practioners and encourages and assists practicing physicians and surgeons in participating in such training. It preserves the right of the general practioner to engage in medical and surgical procedures for which they are qualified by training and experience and serves as a means of advancing medical science and private and public health.

Polio In State Is On Increase

Polio incidence in Mississippi is climbing and March of Dimes funds are being consumed at a rapid rate in providing care for patients, according to announcement by V. T. Anthony, State Representative of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Eleven Mississippi chapters of the Polio Foundation have exhausted local funds and national Dimes organization has sent emerheadquarters of the March of gency aid totaling $29,775.00.

Latest counties to receive funds were Monroe, $1,000, and Rankin $700. Other counties receiving funds this year are: Benton, $1,000; Clarke, $11,000; Copiah, $4,625; Covington, $2,150; Kemper, $1,025; Pearl River, $1,600; Perry, $2,100; Sunflower, $3,000; Yazoo, $1,275; Several other counties will shortly need emergency funds, the Foundation official said. The cost of continuing care for cases stricken in previous years is always heavy.

In 1955, Mississippi chapters of the National Foundation spent $304,160.53 in March of Dimes money for patient care. Of this amount $251,594.02 was for continuing care of old cases, and $52,566.51 for services to new cases stricken during the year. The total requirements for polio patient services in 1956 is estimated to exceed $300,000 again.

The State Board of Health has reported 50 new cases of polio for the first 24 days of August, as compared to 30 cases for the same period last year. The total for this year stands at 143, while on the same date last year there were 134. The five-year average for Mississippi polio cases up to this time is about 260.

Hinds County with 16 new polio cases leads all other counties so far this year. Jones County is second with 14 cases. Forty-four other counties have had from 1 to 9 cases, while 36 counties have had no cases at all.

Research Grants Are Given To Medical Center

Medical research is soon to be big business in Mississippi.

The University Medical Center has been awarded an additional $300,000 in research and training grants for the current year.

Approved by the Board of Trustees of the Institutions of Higher Learning at its August meeting, the grants-in-aid come frob government and voluntary health agencies and will be used to study a wide variety of health problems.

A summary of the new Medical Center grants, by department, donor and amount follows:

Surgery: National Heart Institute, $34,000; Division of Research Grants, National Health Institute, $25,000; National Institute of Neurological Disease and Blindness, $18,107; Office of Surgeon General, two grants, one for $10,925 and one for $39,925; Mississippi Heart Association, $7,700.

Psychiatry: National Institute of Public Health, $25,000.

Preventive Medicine: National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Disease, $9,079.

Pathology: National Advisory Cancer Council, $25,000; National Institute for Neurological Diseases and Blindness, $5,637.

Pharmacology: National Heart Institute, $6,095.

Physiology: Life Insurance Medical Research Fund, $14,500; Mississippi Heart Association, $2,400; American Heart Association, $5,280; National Heart Institute, three grants, totaling $50,794.

Medicine: Mississippi Heart Association, $4,000; American Cyanamid Company, $2,000, and National Heart Institute, $6,900.

How To Get Children To Earn Their Allowances And Like It

By Mary Clarke
Condensed from Town Journal Magazine

We have stopped handing out allowances. Our children earn their spending money. As a result I now have lots of willing help, and the children have much more money for themselves.

As allowance day rolled around, I found myself growing more and more irritated at my children's attitude of expecting that money as their right.

Of course, each was supposed to perform certain tasks during the week. Yet, oftener than not some jobs were neglected, or done in a slipshod way. And they resented it when I reminded them that they had work to do.

Our pay-by-the-job system has been in operation for six months now, and it's part of our family life.

No longer do the older children quit the dinner table in haste, muttering defensively, "homework."

No more do I find untidy bedrooms and unmade beds.

Not now are window washing and floor scrubbing undertaken reluctantly.

The secret? Mysterious little marks on the kitchen blackboard opposite each of the children's names. Each mark represents one work unit completed, and may be redeemed for 10c.

The marks have even become a family banking system. If one child owes another money, they'll swap check marks. Whenever they want money, they ask for a dollar or two and erase 10 or 20 of their due-marks.

All this lightens my household tasks, heightens family morale, and best of all, teaches the children that they have to work for what they get. The future citizens in our house are not going to expect that the world owes them a living. They'll be ready to go out and dig for it—just as today they go out and dig in our garden for a few marks on the kitchen blackboard.

Home Agent's Notes

By Elsie H. Butler

Have you found milk bottles and other containers "sweating" in your refrigerator?

Many people have, and have thought something was wrong with their refrigerator to cause this condensation of moisture.

But research workers say it doesn't mean your refrigerator is defective; it means it is doing the job you want it to do. The increased sweating shows that the inside of the refrigerator and its contents are colder than they were in older refrigerators—and better for keeping food.

Because the newer refrigerators are designed for temporary storage of frozen foods in the "ice-cube compartment," the temperature there is from 10 to 15 degrees lower than in older refrigerators. This lower temperature in the evaporator makes the whole storage area of the refrigerator—and everything in it—colder.

Then you open the door. The varm, moist summer air that flows in condenses when it comes against the colder surfaces and causes the sweating.

If you wrap your milk bottles closely with paper towels, you will cut down condensation on the glass. You can cut down the sweating also by opening the refrigerator door less often. Plan ahead and put in or take out several foods at a time instead of taking each out separately, opening the door each time.

Caution the children, too. They often hold the door open "just looking for something to eat or a cold drink."

Seasoning Cooked Vegetables

As much as we like the fresh summer vegetables, we do like a little change in the way they are prepared sometime. To do this, why not try some variety in seasonings?

With rsnap beans or summe squash, cook a tablespoon or two of minced onion, green pepper or parsley.

Put a pinch of herbs or spice in the water when you cook lima beans.

With peas, cook a few mint leaves.

But go easy with these seasonings. Their pungency easily overshadows the delicate flavors of vegetables.

Season cooked vegetables with salad oil, with lemon juice, horseradish or a whisper of garlic.

"Aren't they a little short, Ma?"

The situation pictured here has applied for several years to Southern Bell's Mississippi operation: hand-me-down rates made in 1949 and let-out some in 1952, simply won't cover the revenue requirements of our Mississippi network which has been growing at the fastest rate in telephone history.

Now we are serving Mississippi with twice as many telephones as in 1945 (seven times as many rural ones) and to make this possible we've invested an additional 108 million dollars so far and expect to spend another 30 millions this year and next.

Expenses, due to this additional investment, and to wage, tax and other increases, have risen 7½ million dollars a year since 1949 . . . but our income has gone up only around 3½ million dollars yearly: thus failing by approximately 4 millions a year to yield the reasonable income needed to provide Mississippians with adequate service today and to interest investors in supplying money needed for future expansion. That's why we have asked the Public Service Commission to study the matter and set new rates to fit today's needs.

Any child in the bottom third of his school class and any child not performing up to his capacity should have a thorough vision examination, Dr. May said.

He said that uncorrected vision problems are contributing causes in 50 per cent of all cases of reading failure, according to a University of Chicago study.

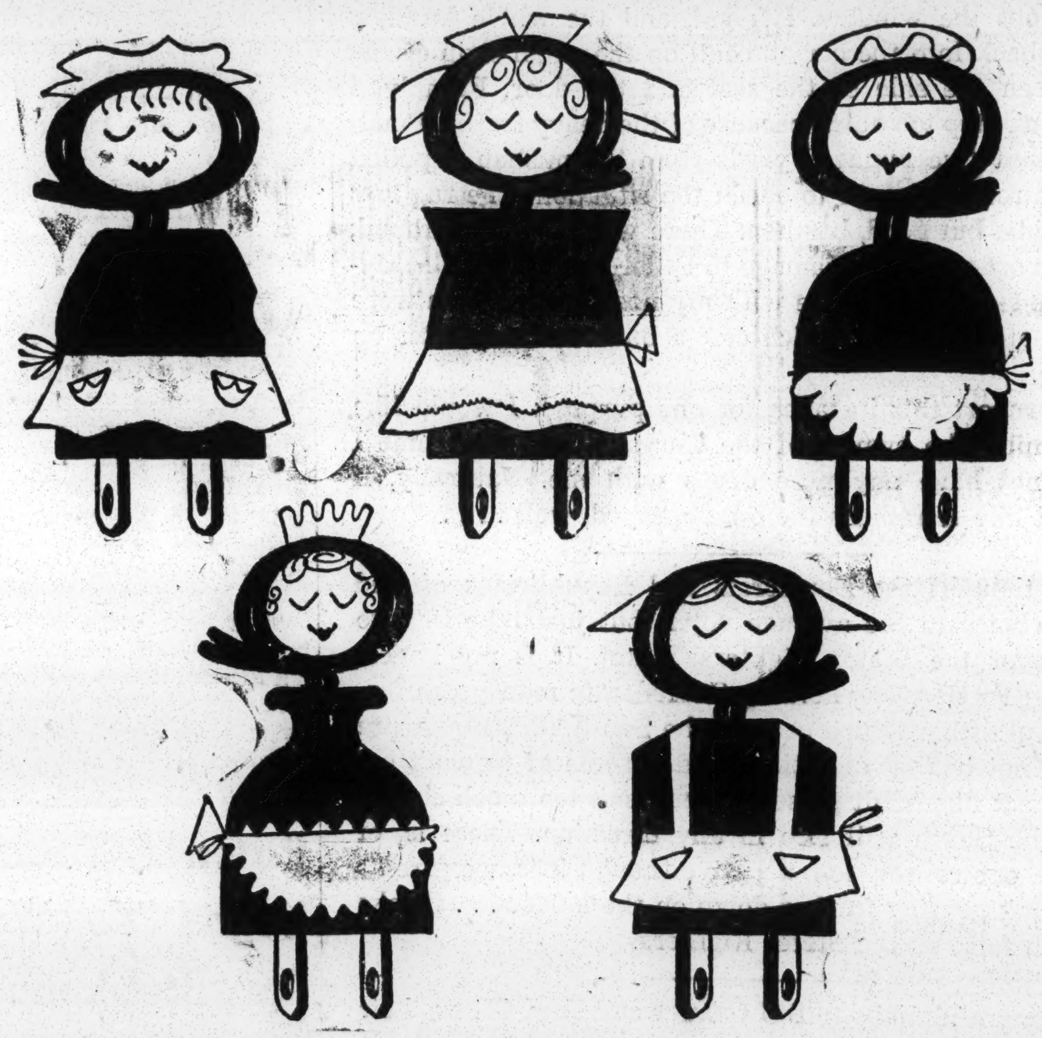
A HOUSEFUL OF SERVANTS FOR LESS THAN 20¢ A DAY



Certainly it's cheap. They're electric servants—and you pay their wages with your electric bill. Total cost—less than 20 cents a day for the average family!

You've about doubled your use of electricity in the last 10 years. So your monthly bill is more. But the average price of your electricity is lower—so your bill probably isn't twice as high.

And when you think of all the things electricity does—don't you agree it's the biggest bargain in your family budget?

Follow These Rules For Safe Driving

School Time Is Safe Driving Time --
The Child You Save May Be Your Own!

STOP and WAIT when school busses are taking on or discharging passengers.

More and more children are on the streets again — some of them going to school for the first time. Children will be crossing the streets, walking along country roads, waiting for school busses. Children are sometimes unpredictable, and it is up to drivers to stay alert and in full command of their vehicles in case an emergency arises. PLEASE drive extra carefully. Give the right of way to school busses Be alert. The children may not see you — be sure you see them!

KEEP ALERT for children walking to school in the city or on country roads.

Follow These Rules For Safe Driving

- Be doubly careful near schools or where children play. Children don't realize the danger and may take chances. That's why you, the driver, must take extra care.
- Slow down. Speed is dangerous at any time — doubly dangerous when visibility is cut by rain, fog, or darkness.
- Keep lights and windshield wipers in good condition during rainy or snowy weather. You have to see danger to avoid it.
- Keep your car in top mechanical condition. Use chains when roads are slippery.
- Obey traffic laws. Know the traffic laws wherever you travel and don't break them.
- If you drive, don't drink — if you drink, don't drive. Remember, death takes no holiday.
- Be a courteous driver. Yield right-of-way, even when it should be yours. It's better to stay alive than to be dead right.
